Women's New Status

Ratification by the legislature of Tennessee of the amendment to the constitution of the United States extending equal suffrage to women was noteworthy in that it made the 36th State to approve of the amendment, and consequently made possible the promulgation of the new constitutional change as binding upon the whole nation. As a result between 15,000,000 and 20,000,000 women will be added to the list of qualified voters in the presidential elections next November. In other words, there will be in the neighborhood of 40,000,000 eligible voters in the United States, a number unequalled in any other country.

What effect this large enfranchisement of new voters will have on the fortunes of the Republican and Democratic parties it is difficult to say. The probability is that in this first election the women will, as a general rule, vote the same ticket as their men folks, but as the years go by and women develop an aptitude for public affairs and a distinct political consciousness, it is altogether likely that marked changes will be effected in party policies and methods.

The innovation will be for the good of the country and the world, because, naturally, the work of the people of other parts of the world will appeal more strongly to the women than they appear to have done to the big financial and commercial interests of the United States dominated by men judged by the treatment accorded the peace treaty and the League of Nations. There will probably be less selfishness and more humanitarian feelings in American politics of the future.

The enfranchisement of millions of women will also, in all probability, have the effect of definitely settling the much vexed question of prohibition and assure the retention of prohibition of the liquor traffic as a permanent policy of the United States.

In the extension of full citizenship rights to women, Canada led the United States, first the provinces and then the Dominion taking this advanced and enlightened action. In this country, too, this undoubtedly means the deathknell of the liquor traffic. In other respects the effect of the entry of women into politics is distinctly noticeable. Greater attention is being paid by governments to the problems of health and along many lines making for human betterment in moral and social conditions, and, in particular, in the direction of legislation establishing and protecting the rights of women, working girls and children generally.

So, too, the presence of women in the legislatures of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and British Columbia, and almost certainly in the next Dominion parliament, as well as upon municipal councils and school boards, is bringing new angles to the consideration of public matters of far-reaching importance. To an increasing extent in the future, business in the government and the practical side of administration will be softened by attention being devoted to more sentimental and aesthetic considerations.

As a consequence of the participation of women in public affairs there must come, as there has come from their general entry into business, a greater self-reliance on the part of the women themselves. They will need it, because, as they increasingly engage in occupations formerly regarded as the exclusive prerogative of the men, it is inevitable that the old deference paid by men to women will become less in evidence. This tendency, regrettable as it is, is already noticeable in small matter, as, for instance, the growing reluctance of men to give up their seats to women in crowded cars or other places of assembly, or to giving them precedence in a crowd. Women will miss these little old-time courtesies, and it is a pity that they should pass, as already there is too little gentleness and courtesy in this matter-of-fact, workaday world. But it is a price that, apparently, must be paid in this new age of absolute equality between men and women.

It is to be hoped, however, that mothers will still inculcate in their sons a high regard and respect for, and gentleness and courtesy towards, women, and that all men will strive to maintain such an attitude towards women even in the stress, strife and turmoil of business and political life, and that the women will endeavor to be worthy of such regard from the men, so that, with all the undoubted advantages of this new era the world may not lose all the old chivalry of the past.

CHAPTER N.

"Joe, T. Smythe, Seller of guns, ammunition, and provisions; Buyer of furs and game."

"This sign cracked and complained against a dingy little building of unplaned boards. It was gray and forsaken-looking, being one of about 200 others just like it of gloomy and sullen aspect. This was Bridgetown. On its one side, stretching eastward, lay a drag-gray fallow of partly cleared land. Here and there stood a clump of trees; here and there a solitary stub, as-cleared or fire-blackened. In these Nature seemed to be voicing her resentment of the ravages of man. In this, the close of an October day, the little town seemed as dead as the slain beauties that had once reigned in her place."

Westward, beginning with a stable of second-growth birches and maples, the land rolled and undulated. At each step southward and westward taking on a more picturesque appearance of natural grandeur. For ten miles inland lay a scene that civilization had left upon the forest. Then the marks were seen no more. A yellow ridge of golden-ochre marked the boundary line, and behind this lay Bushwhacker's Place.

Mr. Smythe, the storekeeper, stood gazing out from the dirty pane of the dreary parlor, occasionally lifting his light-blue eyes heavenward. A big storm-cloud was reeling in above the forest from the west.

"Watson ought to be back by now," he mused for the twentieth time in half an hour. "God forgive me if I did wrong in letting him take gray Fan. He's three stone too heavy for the mare."

He turned from the window and glanced toward the door. A heavy step was approaching. From without came a sonorous voice calling and scolding a pack of hounds that now came scrambling and barking up the deserted street.

"It's Colonel Hallbut," whispered Smythe in dismay. "Why does he want to show up just at this time of all times? Watson might have known that he would put in his appearance just when he wasn't wanted. All right sir. Yes, sir, I'll open for you, Colonel. Come in, sir, come in."

A big form filled the doorway and a big voice spoke.

"Nice storekeeper you are, Smythe, to have your door locked this way. What's the matter with you, anyway? Let the dogs come in; poor chaps, they're tired."

"They don't take to my hounds don't, Colonel," ventured the storekeeper. "That brindle fellow took hold of my leg the last time I let 'em in. However, there you are. Nice dogs, come in and make yourselves at home."

"Finest pack in Ontario; finest pack in the whole Dominion, I say—those fellows," laughed Hallbut, jolting, in the semi-darkness, against a pile of furs and toppling it over on the floor. Immediately three of the tired dogs stretched themselves on the sofa-bed, as though it had been arranged for them, and went to sleep. Hallbut threw himself into a chair by the fireplace and laughed at the other's dismay.

"Better not try to disturb 'em, Smythe," he cautioned. "They're ugly, I tell you. Get them something to eat will you? And say, Smythe, just have that nigger of yours get me up a snack, too, like a good fellow; I've been riding since morning."

"St. Thomas?" asked Mr. Smythe, shifting his light eyes to the Colonel's face and patting his thin hair.

with his long fingers.

"It doesn't matter," returned the other. "Where is Watson?"

"I'm sorry to say," commenced Smythe, but the Colonel turned upon him, his black brows knit in a frown.

"You needn't finish. I know."

He arose stiffly and walked around the corner.

"Give me the key, Smythe," he demanded, holding out his hand.

The Colonel took the key and unlocked a small oak cupboard, extracting from it a bottle of red liquor.

"I'm afraid if Watson persists in drinking I'll have to find a new agent," he said, walking to the door and throwing the bottle across the street.

"Seems he can't resist the drink, Colonel," stammered the groceryman.

His long face had turned to a yellow-white, though much of it was hid by the advancing night-shadows from the black orbits of the ponderous man before him.

"I'll go and have you a meal prepared. Make yourself comfortable, Colonel Hallbut."

Not until the door of the inner room closed upon him did the soul of Smythe vent itself in whispered imprecations. He clenched his claw-like fists and shook them fiercely. He let forth a trade of murmured oaths that would have made a Newfoundland fisherman gasp in wonder. Finally, he turned and, prying through the gloom, sought out the recumbent figure of his colored man-of-all-work, who was peacefully sleeping on a cot of willowboughs. Smythe crept forward and bent above the sleeper. A prolonged nose met him.

He reached forward, and, feeling down the wide bridge of the negro's nose until he got the desired hold, he deliberately gave that member such a violent twist that Sam came out of Maroonland to this trying sphere with a suppressed snort.

"Yes, Massar," he cried, struggling up.

"Light the candles and put some bacon to fry," commanded Smythe.

"Colonel Hallbut is here?"

"Laxd save us!" groaned the colored man. "Where an dem candles, I wonder? Hah he got de dogs, sah?" shading a match with his hands so that its flickering light showed the apprehension in his white eyeballs.

"Some of 'em, yes. Don't stand there shakin'. Got his supper ready, then go down to the Triple Elms and wait for Watson. They musn't meet until I've seen Watson. You tell him the Colonel is here and to be low until he leaves."

Sam had lit the candle and now stood tongueing his thick lips.

"It's gwine to be a bad night, sah, an' dey do say a pack of wolves—"

Smythe lifted his hand.

"Hurry up—I hear him tramping out there. What did I tell you?" The heavy voice of the Colonel was heard requesting that lights be brought and the fire be made more cheerful.

"You'd better take a rifle with you," said the storekeeper, turning to the negro, his hand on the latch.

Sam waited until the door had been closed behind his master. Then he gave way to silent mirth.

"Massar Smiff don't want Watson 't meet de Kennel. An' de Kennel a-waitin' out dar fer Massar Watson ter pop in any time. Hee hee hee!"

He quickly prepared the visitor's meal, and, hitting the rifle from its pegs, slipped out by the back door.

After he had eaten his supper Hallbut pushed his chair back from the table and tot for his pipe.

"When was Watson over to Bushwhacker's Place last?" he asked, his eyes on Smythe's face.

"Let me see—why, I think it was on Tuesday, sir. He said you asked him to use his influence with those misguided people who prefer savagery to civilization."

"Your friend has a vivid imagination," remarked Hallbut. "He came to see me and told me a lot of nice things the Bushwhackers intended doing to me if I didn't mind my own business. Knowing Watson to be an even bigger prevaricator than you are, I believed half what he said and let the rest go by me. However, I know the Bushwhackers haven't any use for me. I don't know why. Guess they think I'd do anything I set out to do—and they're not far wrong. He suggested that I let you and him handle this deal for me, and after consideration I thought maybe I had better. I'm too short-tempered to ever use diplomacy, and as I'm no hypocrite I couldn't soft soap the Bushwhackers into coming my way of thinking. I'm willing to pay them whatever the timber is worth. It ought to be a good thing for them, and I'm inclined to think they'll be sensible and sell the timber. I only want the biggest of the hard stuff."

BOLSHEVIKS LOSING GROUND

Repeated Efforts to Encircle Lemberg Have Resulted in Failure

Warsaw. — Further gains on the northern front are reported in the Polish official communication which says the Polish troops occupied Augustow, northeast of Grodno, where they were enthusiastically received by the population. Lithuanian detachments encountered by the Poles have been most friendly.

The Bolsheviks are continuing to give way before Polish pressure in the Bialystok sector, say the communication. The Poles have recovered Narw. The Russians are preparing to make serious resistance in the region of Malanarwa river.

Quiet prevails in the West-Litovsk sector. The Poles are resisting repeated efforts to encircle Lemberg. Pralawice, which had been temporarily evacuated by the Poles has been regained in a counter-attack.

Bolshevik attacks upon Zaslavce, east of Lemberg, have been repulsed with heavy losses. General Budny's forces have been driven out of the region of Zydzykow and Chodorow, south of Lemberg.

London. — The Poles have taken Smolensk, about 40 miles northwest of Grodno, it is announced by Lithuanian representatives here. A Polish division is reported to be advancing on Sely, east of Smolensk.

It is stated that the granting of smoking time has resulted in increased output.

Faint and Dizzy Spells. Weakness and Shortness of Breath.

You can generally tell when the heart is affected by the faint and dizzy spells, the shortness of breath, palpitation, throbbing, irregular beating, smothering sensations, weak, falling, all gone feeling, etc., etc., etc.

Many men and women become rundown and worn out when otherwise they could be strong and healthy if they would only pay some attention to the first signs of heart weakness.

No remedy will do so much to make the heart regain strength and vigor, regulate the beat and restore it to a healthy and normal condition as Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills.

Mrs. C. A. S. Dr. J. H. Davis, writes: "I have used on towards the second box of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills and find they have done me good. I had those fainting, dizzy spells, once in a while, and also weakness and shortness of breath, and would become so choked up at times I could hardly sleep without sitting up in bed. When walking too fast I would have to stop and try to catch my breath. I feel a lot better since I have used your pills and know that they have helped me wonderfully as I have improved very much."

Journalists Dine On Buffalo Meat

Something New Was on Bill of Fare For Press Delegates

Jasper, Alta. — Viscount Barnham, in cap and apron, carved a great haunch of buffalo for the luncheon given the Imperial press delegates at Jasper National Park, on the shores of Lake Bowset. It was altogether a holiday party which gathered under the genial climate of northern Alberta. The weather could not have been improved.

Sir Emsley Carr, publisher of the News of the World, in acknowledging the kindness of all the park authorities, said it was a distinction that only Canada could provide.

The wonders of Maligne Mountain were visited in the afternoon, where the visitors eagerly returned to Lake Bowset to bask in the sunshine and color of the picturesque scene of the water in Jasper Lake. The party entrained in the early evening for the next stopping point.

U.S. Trade Increasing

Notwithstanding Technical State of War Existed, Trade With Germany Grows

Washington. — Although a technical state of war still exists between the United States and Germany and Austria, trade with those countries is rapidly increasing. Reports of the department of commerce show that exports to Germany totalled $322,176,979 during the 12 months ended last June 30, as compared with $8,818,882 during the corresponding 12 months the year before. Bush Fires Destroy Homes

Sixteen Families in Manitoba Suffer Heavy Loss

Winnipeg. — Sixteen families in the St. Rose du Lac district have lost their homes, barns, implements and crops in bush fires that have been laying waste the area in the last few days, according to an official report by provincial authorities. Thousands of acres of haylands, and hundreds of tons of cut hay have been destroyed in the northern part of the province.

The danger in all sections is at an end for the present, however, on account of the rainfall, which was fairly general over Manitoba.

MILLIONS ARE INVOLVED IN BIG LAW SUIT

ACTION TAKEN BY STEEL CO.

Claim Payment for Rails Rolled Under Government's

Ottawa. — A suit involving several million dollars, the point at issue being the value of steel rails which the Dominion government, under the authority of the war measures act, compelled the Dominion Steel Company to roll during the war period for the use of Canadian railways, will be heard by the exchequer court at a sitting which opens on September seven.

The amount involved is $8,727,617, less cash already advanced to the extent of $5,500,000. This makes the actual amount in dispute upwards of three and one-quarter millions with interest.

The amount of rails rolled under the government's order was something in excess of 100,000 tons, for which the company seeks payment at the rate of $75 per ton. As the government considered the price too high provision was made by an order in council for a reference of the dispute to the exchequer court.

The rails were delivered under the government order to the Grand Trunk Pacific and other roads. These railways have been made parties to the proceedings before the exchequer court, the purpose being to have the court declare that the railways must pay for the rails received the amount the court finds to be fair and reasonable.

Establish Steel Plant

Sugar Stocks Exhausted

Montreal Refiners' Price of $22.80 Hundredweight Likely To Obtain

Montreal. — While sugar refiners announced last week that the price of sugar would be dropped two cents a pound all around, making the quotations for the best granulated $22.80 a hundred net, local brokers who have had heavy stocks on hand have been offering this grade around 18 cents a pound, and there has been more fluctuation in the market between this figure and the twenty-two cent level.

The refiners state that the broker stocks are now practically exhausted and the expectation is that the price will stabilize at $22.80 a hundred lbs. for the best grade of sugar, with a steadiness in the other grades.

LIFE INSURANCE

The following letter is a copy forwarded by the General Manager of the Royal Bank of Canada to the Secretary of the Life Insurance Association.

Montreal, August 11th, 1920

Geo. H. Hunt, Esq.,
Toronto, Ont.

Dear Sir,—Replying to your letter of the 10th inst., in reference to the value of life insurance, I may say that our confidence in a borrower is always enhanced by the fact that he carries a life insurance policy. The wisdom of providing for unforeseen contingencies is an indication of conservatism. Partnership and individual insurance policies assigned to the bank as collateral security for advances, have frequently saved the bank from loss when there was no other visible source of repayment, and saved the loan's family from the stigma of debt.

Yours truly,

E. L. Paine, Managing Director.

Pulp and Paper-Making Plant Will Probably be Established
At Prince George

Announcement is made by Hon. T. D. Pattullo, head of the timber department of British Columbia, that a great pulp and paper-making plant will probably be established at Prince George.

Immense stands of spruce and balsam near that city have been investigated this summer by representatives of eastern concerns who may erect a large plant.

As a result of the shortage of newsprint and the resultant increase in price, the pulp and paper industry is receiving a great impetus. The enormous stretches of big timber throughout British Columbia offer a great inducement to the paper manufacturers and several plants are proposed in different parts of the province.

Mr. Earnest Clark, Police Officer, 338 King St., Kingston, Ont., writes:

"For three years I suffered from nervousness and sleeplessness. I believe my condition was brought about by overwork. I had frequent headaches, neuralgic pains and twitching of nerves and muscles. I had indigestion, was short of breath and easily tired. I commenced a treatment of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and seven boxes of this medicine cured me of all my symptoms. I am now feeling one hundred per cent. better than I was, and have to thank Dr. Chase's Nerve Food for the good health I am now enjoying."

New Lumber Industry Planned

Sash and Door Factory for Mission, British Columbia

Construction of a $135,000 sash and door factory is being planned at Mission, British Columbia, by the Canadian Western Door Company, which has recently been organized with a capitalization of a quarter of a million dollars, according to a report from that city.

The company plans to establish one of the most modern and up-to-date sash and door factories on the Pacific Coast, with a capacity to start with of 1,000 doors per day (or approximately 600 doors and 500 window sashes)—a carload of finished product a day. The plant when completed will employ about 75 people, with a payroll amounting approximately to $10,000 per month.

Second Crop a Record

The second crop this season of alfalfa in Southern Alberta is making splendid progress and promises to be a record crop on top of a record first cutting.

It is a jury indeed when the twelve good men are compelled to listen to long-winded lawyers.

Girls! Women! Do Your Looks Satisfy You?

Is your color fresh and rosy? Does the glow of health shine out in your cheeks?

Do your eyes glisten with health, or are they dull, dark circled and tired?

Also—your bloodless face indicates poor health. Your watery blood menaces your health. What you need is the toning, cleansing assistance of Dr. Hamilton's Pills. They will clean out the surplus of bile that makes your skin so murky—they will put new life into the stomach, brace up digestion and make you eat sufficient food to get a blood supply ahead.

Good blood always means more strength and vigor—that's why Dr. Hamilton's Pills are so successful in building up weak, thin folks.

You'll feel better at once, your looks will improve and that half dead, half feeling will depart, because Dr. Hamilton's Pills cleanse and fortify every ailing organ in your body.

Ask your friends, your neighbors—most anyone can tell you of the enormous good done by Dr. Hamilton's Pills, but beware of any substitute.

Seed Rye Exports

Calgary grain men state that seed rye may be exported to the United States without being subject to any restrictions or regulations other than those ordinarily met with in the customs department. Seed rye entering the States is not subject to duty. In order to ship the product across the line, it is necessary to procure "foreign" cars, as American rolling stock in Canada is designated by the grain dealers, and once loaded on those the grain may be sent to any point under the same conditions as a shipment in Canada is made.

Asthma Doesn't Wear Off Alone. Do not make the mistake of waiting for asthma to wear away by itself. While you are waiting the disease is surely gathering a stronger foothold and you live in danger of stronger and yet stronger attacks. Dr. J. D. K. It Never Is

In a small town not long ago after a fire, some children held a fair. The sum realized they sent to the pastor of the church. Their letter read:

"This $30 was raised by a fair, and we are sending it to you. Please give it to the fire sufferers."

"P. S.—We hope the suffering is not all over."

Wheat in Eighty Days

Importance of Perfecting the Early Maturing Varieties

Captain Howell of Grande Prairie started cutting Ruby wheat on August 11th, with prospects that the yield will be heavy and of a high grade. It took but eighty days from time of sowing for it to ripen. One hundred days has been the time hitherto accepted as necessary for the process, and it is impossible to exaggerate the importance of the work of Dr. Saunders in perfecting the early maturing varieties. Dean Howes, of the university faculty of agriculture at a board of trade luncheon, used the success of Saunders' experiments very effectively as an illustration of the importance of giving the most liberal facilities for agricultural experimental work. Twenty days in most Western Canadian crop seasons makes a very great difference. The saving of it means the extension of a long distance to the north of the area in which wheat growing may be carried on with a reasonable degree of safety.—Edmonton Journal.

A MOTHER'S TRIALS

Care of Home and Children Often Causes a Breakdown

The woman at home, deep in household duties and the cares of motherhood, needs occasional help to keep her in good health. The demands upon a mother's health are many and severe. Her own health trials and her children's welfare exact heavy tolls, while hurried meals, broken rest and much indoor living tend to weaken her constitution. No wonder that the woman at home is often indisposed through weakness, headaches, backaches and nervousness. Too many women have grown to accept these visitations as part of the lot of motherhood. But many and varied as her health troubles are, the cause is simple and relief at hand. When well, it is the woman's good blood that keeps her well; when ill she must make her blood rich to renew her health. The nursing mother more than any other woman in the world needs rich blood and plenty of it. There is one way to get this good blood so necessary to perfect health, and that is through the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. These pills make new blood, and through their use thousands of weak, ailing wives and mothers have been made bright, cheerful and strong. If you are ailing, easily tired or depressed, it is a duty you owe yourself and your family to get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for a fair trial. What this medicine has done for others it will surely do for you.

You can get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills through any dealer in medicines or by mail at the best price—bottles for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

A Household Medicine.—They that are acquainted with the sterling properties of Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil in the treatment of many ailments would not be without it in the house. It is truly a household medicine and as it is effective in dealing with many ordinary complaints it is cheaper than a doctor. So, keep it at hand, as the call for it may come most unexpectedly.

The wigwam was sufficient for the Indian because he only spent his sleeping hours in it. In other words, his primitive home was merely a shelter. What a difference there is in the home of today, and especially the farm home! It is not only a shelter, but is, in addition, the center of the farm activities, both business and pleasure; in it the house-keeper spends most of her time preparing the meals and performing the duties which make it home to her husband and the family, and upon it depend the contentment and joy of the family life.

AROUND THE TOWN

Miss O'Neill of Irkutka was the guest of friends in Didsbury last week.

Clifford Ruby of Three Hills paid us a visit on Thursday and took in the fair.

Mrs. J. A. Ruby and daughters of Calgary were visitors at Didsbury during fair time.

Visitors from Calgary, Three Hills, Edmonton and several other places were seen on the grounds.

Mrs. J. E. Stauffer of Calgary was here during the fair and acted as one of the judges of fancy work.

D. Irwin was the man who made a clean up in the Short-horn classes, winning no less than five first prizes.

J. N. Paton will sell the household effects of Dr. G. M. Reid at the doctor's former residence on Saturday, October 2.

Boost the exhibition for next year by becoming a member of the Agricultural Society this year. It only costs $1 and it pays.

Mr. and Mrs. L. Kallbelsch of Three Hills were visiting with Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Liesemer and Mr. and Mrs. J. V. Bersch during fair time.

Dr. G. M. Reid left for Frank on Wednesday last to take up his new duties as the Frank Superintendent. Mrs. Reid will join the doctor in a few weeks.

Helen Baitinger & Co. will appear at the opera house on Friday night. A splendid evening's entertainment of music, song and story is on the programme. Don't fail to attend.

Mr. and Mrs. Ben Kenyon and sons, Franklin, of Roseville, Ont., and Mr. John Brown and Mr. Pruscher of Three Hills were visitors with Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Perrin during fair week.

There are two pointed bylaws for Westerdale Municipality published in this week's issue. It would be well for the residents of this municipality to look them up and study them.

Another year everyone should make an effort to arrange for one or two exhibits. By doing this not only variety but greater success is attained which gives better support to the Society.

Those who attended the Evangelical church Sunday evening enjoyed the lecture given by Mrs. Becker, secretary of the Woman's Association of Toronto, who spoke in the interests of prohibition.

The lady directors in the fancy work classes had their work cut out when it is considered that they had 154 entries to arrange. This was a splendid showing. Miss Edna King of Carstairs succeeded in taking home sixteen prizes in these classes.

Mr. George Hynes of Renfrew, Ont., is visiting with Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Kendrick. Mr. Hynes attended the fair last week and he states that he was very much impressed with the exhibition. As this was the first western fair that he had ever attended he was agreeably surprised at the splendid display.

NOTICE—I beg to announce that any who desire to familiarize themselves with the theory and practice of Pitman's system of shorthand will have the opportunity of doing so by joining the class to commence at the museum on Wednesday, September 29, at 8 p.m. D. MacGregor, Tutor. 37

The W.C.T.U. have appointed a number of ladies to go over the town and district for the purpose of explaining who may vote at the forthcoming prohibition referendum. We received the full instructions too late for this week's issue but as registration closes on Wednesday next, the following may be of benefit. Every person who is 21 years of age, is now a British subject by birth or naturalization, and who has resided at least one year in Canada and two months in the electoral district where he or she seeks to vote, preceding the issue of the writ of election, (April 29th, 1920).

Bomb Outrage in N.Y.

A mysterious explosion occurred in Wall Street, New York, in front of J. P. Morgan's offices last Thursday. The cause of the explosion has not been definitely settled, but it seems to be almost sure that it was caused by bombs placed in position by the Red element.

There were 34 persons killed, 300 injured and property damage of nearly three million dollars. A man by the name of Ed. Fischer was arrested in Hamilton, Ont., on Saturday last and taken to the U.S. under suspicion that he was connected with the tragedy. He had warned friends some time ago to keep out of Wall Street on the day and time the explosion took place.

Ship Your Grain Early

(H. A. Craig, Deputy Minister of Agriculture.)

Information has been received by the department of agriculture from the Canadian Pacific Railway that this company has a large surplus of cars awaiting loading, and in view of the heavy crop of grain to be shipped, there is a prospect of a car shortage later on in the season. The department would, therefore, urge farmers and grain firms to ship as much grain as possible to the head of the lakes during the present month. In doing this, the department is not in any way advising people to sell their grain at the present time, as this is a matter each man must decide for himself.
